I like the starry effect going on in the background. It adds a lot to an otherwise flat background. I think it is a combination of two textures. One is a starry field texture and the other is a flat color texture. The color texture is then used to color the starry texture. This is a background effect, so it shouldn't be affected by lights or camera angle changes.